

The Osiris Group announces the expansion of its network to the Cayman Islands.

The provision of Cayman Islands services is part of Osiris' strategy of giving Osiris' network of intermediaries access to some of the key financial offshore centers and providing multi jurisdictional structuring services via its network of offices.

We are therefore pleased to announce that Osiris International Cayman Limited has now been licensed by the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority and can provide the following corporate services:

- Providing an individual resident in the jurisdiction to act as Company Secretary
- Providing Directors
- Providing an individual resident in the jurisdiction to act as Resident Representative
- Providing a Registered Office for the Company
- Maintaining statutory records (e.g. the register of members, the register of directors and officers), the Minute Book of the Company and other required records
- Preparing notices and agendas, attending and taking minutes of meetings of shareholders, directors and committees
- Liaising with those authorised to speak for the Company and its Shareholders and with the Company's principals, bankers, managers, accountants and auditors
- Advising on legislative changes in the jurisdiction which may impact the statutory requirements of the Company
- General administration of the day-to-day corporate affairs of the Company including dealing with correspondence, faxes, telephone calls and e-mails
- Making applications to, and filing of statutory documents with local regulatory authorities on behalf of the Company
- Soliciting the advice of affiliated Companies in connection with the provision of corporate administrative services
- Providing compliance procedures to ensure that Companies comply with the anti-money laundering legislation

The Osiris Cayman office has been established in partnership with Peter Hughes of Apex fund services and Alric Lindsay, a former investment funds attorney with offshore magic circle law firms Maples and Calder and Ogier .

For those not familiar with the Cayman Islands, it ranks as one of the leading offshore financial centres. There are a number of key factors which make the Cayman Islands an attractive jurisdiction for cross-border transactions including a creditor and investor friendly legal system, based upon English common law with a first-rate court system, (including a separate division within the Grand Court to deal with commercial disputes).

The jurisdiction also offers a stable political environment with adherence to international regulatory standards including, (in relation to anti-money laundering legislation) exchange of information with respect to tax matters and cross-border regulator to regulator information. In addition the Cayman Islands has an established professional infrastructure that is known for its responsiveness and efficiency, as well as being a tax neutral jurisdiction.

Of particular interest is that the Cayman Islands are renowned as the leading jurisdiction for the formation of investments funds and structured finance issuers and Cayman Islands companies are listed on stock exchanges worldwide, including the LSE, AIM, NYSE, NASDAQ, TSX and HKSE.

CSX's listing rules have been designed to allow the listing of specialist debt, depositary receipts, derivative warrants, mutual funds and eurobonds. The exchange also provides a facility for domestic companies to list trade, if they satisfy the requirements. CSX includes a secondary listing facility for companies trading on another recognised exchange.

Through our local partners, Osiris International Cayman Limited can now offer full listing services on CSX to our clients that represent a wide variety of companies, including insurance/reinsurance, consulting, energy, manufacturing, mutual funds, telecommunications, aircraft, and investment.

Over the years the Osiris Group have assembled a skilled and professional staff who are committed to the needs of our many clients. We look forward to meeting the high expectations for quality service from our Cayman operation that has established us as a leading Caribbean based independent provider of wealth management and advisory services .
